Getting around

Most visitors to Melbourne base themselves in the city centre, the buzzing commercial heart of Melbourne that's also home to museums, theatres, restaurants, bars and shops. The city's layout makes Melbourne an easy city to navigate, and almost everything is within walking distance – if it's not, simply hop aboard a train, tram or bus.

Tickets for Public Transport

myki is the smart card ticketing system for public transport around Metropolitan Melbourne. You can pick up a myki for immediate use at metropolitan premium train stations (these appear as a black dot on the metropolitan train network map), close to 800 metropolitan retail outlets (including 7-Eleven), from a myki machine at all metropolitan train stations (full fare myki only) and selected accessible tram stops and bus interchanges. Just look for stations or stores displaying the blue and yellow myki logo. A full fare myki costs $6.00 and a concession, child or seniors myki costs $3.00. NOTE: When you buy a myki it has no value on it, so you need to top-up with additional money before you travel.

See the Public Transport Victoria myki Website (HERE) for more information.

Trams

Melbourne's trams give the city character and provide a scenic way to explore the city and inner suburbs like Richmond, St Kilda and South Yarra. Trams run down the centre of the road on most of Melbourne's major thoroughfares. Services run regularly from 5am – midnight Monday to Thursday and till around 1.30am on Friday and Saturday nights. On Sunday, trams run 7am - 11pm. Many tram services link to bus and train routes.

The Free Tram Zone (see map below) in Melbourne's CBD makes it easier for commuters and tourists to move around the city. The principal boundaries of the Free Tram Zone are Spring Street, Flinders Street and La Trobe Street. Additionally, the tram routes along Victoria Street, William Street and Elizabeth Street that surround Victoria Market are also included as well as the Docklands area.

See the Public Transport Victoria myki Website (HERE) for more information.

Free City Circle Trams

Distinctive burgundy and gold City Circle trams provide free and convenient travel to city sights and attractions, with an automated commentary announcing points of interest along the route. Running along Flinders Street, Harbour Esplanade, Docklands Drive, La Trobe Street and Spring Street, a complete journey takes around an hour. Trams run in both directions every 12 minutes from 10am-6pm Sunday to Wednesday and 10am-9pm from Thursday to Saturday (except Christmas Day and Good Friday).

Trains

Melbourne has a user-friendly train system that can take you to a range of destinations. Metro trains begin or end their journey at Flinders Street Station, on the corner of Flinders and Swanston streets, while Southern Cross Station is Melbourne's hub for regional and interstate trains. The City Loop is Melbourne's underground system, with five stations servicing the CBD: Southern Cross Station, Flagstaff, Melbourne Central, Parliament and Flinders Street (Flagstaff does not operate on weekends). There are 16 different lines which service the outer suburbs. Stations are all linked to bus or tram services.

See the Public Transport Victoria myki Website (HERE) for more information.

Buses

Melbourne's bus network is made up of over 300 routes. Buses run frequently to major hubs, including shopping centres, schools, hospitals, leisure and sporting activities, and Melbourne's biggest attractions.

See the Public Transport Victoria myki Website (HERE) for more information.

Taxis's

Melbourne taxis are numerous and easy to spot – they are all uniformly yellow. As well, drivers must always wear a neat uniform and have an identity card on show at all times. Taxi meters are usually clearly visible, so you can keep check of your fare. Late night taxi trips must be paid for in advance. Between 10pm and 5am in Victoria, the driver will ask you for an up-front deposit, based on a table of point to point estimates. You can use the fare estimator to work out what your up-front costs are likely to be. Melbourne cabs attract additional charges like a late night surcharge from midnight to 5am, a fee for phone bookings, a fee for using the Citylink freeway and even a fee for taxis waiting at the airport rank. Visit the Taxi Victoria Fare Estimator website (HERE) to get an indication of fare prices based on pick-up and drop-off points anywhere in Victoria.

Weather and Climate

Melbourne enjoys manageable summers, glorious springs, mild autumns and crisp winters. With its variable climate, Melbourne is warm to hot in summer (December to February), mild in autumn (March to May), cold and damp in winter (June to August), and cool in spring (September to November). Melbourne's warmest months are generally January and February, which are often dry and prone to hot spells, although some respite is provided by the cooling sea breezes of Port Phillip Bay. June and July are the coldest months, while October is the wettest. The annual average rainfall for Melbourne is around 600mm, which is substantially less rain than Sydney receives.
